ABOUT THE BUSINESS

Naylor Civil is led by Managing Director Jamie Naylor, a proud Bama man of Bulgan Warra with over 15 years of civil construction leadership and multi-million dollar project experience across procurement, delivery and workforce management. Operating from Kuku-Yalanji Country in Far North Queensland, the business was founded on the belief that the best projects are built on the best relationships. We work closely with Traditional Owners and communities to ensure cultural protocols are respected and that Indigenous Australians have meaningful employment and opportunity on every project we deliver.

CORE CAPABILITY

Civil Construction

Earthworks, pavements, retaining structures and complex multi-discipline civil packages — self-performed and subcontracted.

Roads

Construction, rehabilitation and maintenance for government, council, mining, commercial and residential clients.

Culverts & Drainage

Culvert installations, stormwater networks, open channels and subsurface drainage, urban and rural.

Concrete & FRP

Slabs, footings, tilt-up, paved surfaces, structural pours and fibre-reinforced polymer systems.

Project Management

Certified project managers covering scope, schedule, cost and risk from brief to practical completion.

Project Controls

Cost engineering, scheduling, progress measurement, risk management, reporting and dashboards.

Property Development

Site preparation, subdivision earthworks, civil services and construction management.

Rural Fencing & Pools

Post and rail, barb, high-tensile and exclusion fencing; concrete and FRP pools and driveways.

Demolition & Clearing

Demolition, site clearing and remediation with full waste management and compliance.

ACCREDITATIONS & CREDENTIALS

Supply Nation Certified Indigenous Business

Naylor Civil is listed on Supply Nation, Australia's largest database of verified Indigenous businesses. Engaging Naylor Civil directly contributes to Indigenous procurement targets and Reconciliation Action Plan commitments.
